PERSONAL RELATIONS

Grew up in Chile, South America. While his father was working in the lumber industries, he was exposed to many environments, people and situations from an early age, thereby developing an excellent ability in coping with various social environments and situations that involve synchronic activities.

Active in literature on a recreational, semi-professional basis, he has also published small articles in news papers and magazines since the age of eleven. In 1970, at the age of 23, his first book was published in Spanish: "Vaiven Vivencial" with a prologue by Nobel Prize winner Pablo Neruda.

A year later, "Fragmentos'70", a collection of poems and poetic prose. "Hijo del Universo" 1983 and "Unidos en Libertad" 1986, an illustrated children story book.

In early years he toured Mexico and Peru, studying with healers and shamans. He also lived in Northern Africa and Europe and traveled extensively. In 1978 visited Middle East where he studied with Kabalists. In 1978 presented health theories in Geneva to officials of the World Health Organization while keeping a psychiatric practice in Colorado.

In 1979 visited Egypt and India, sponsored a training and a public service project in Nepal and traveled extensively through Asia, visiting Thailand, China, Hong Kong and Japan. In these countries he visited their professional mental health and cultural institutions and had close contact with local, rural and urban people. Since then he travels periodically to South America, where he conducts workshops and intensive psychotherapeutic trainings part of the year. Acquainted with various government houses and high officers in Chile, Colombia, Venezuela, India and the United States. Since his days in Medical School he was guest of the State Department and of Robert Kennedy's Family in the U.S. in 1976, met with President Jimmy Carter and VP Mondale in 1977, the Maharani of Pathiala and the Head of Parliament in India, in 1979. He maintains excellent relations with different spiritual leaders of major denominations. Was received by His Holiness Pope Jean Paul II, in June 1986 and 1997, the President of the 42 General assembly of the UN in 1987 and has been a guest in Dharamsala, India of His Holiness the Dalai Lama in several occasions.
